

ANTIOCH COLLEGE GREEN SPACE FOR THE MIND

SATURDAY, APRIL 9, 2011

▶ Antioch College, South Hall, Herndon Gallery

A daylong symposium that will explore initiatives to incorporate contemplative practice into academic and social settings in higher education. ADMISSION IS FREE.

10 A.M. WEBINAR, with best-selling author DANIEL GOLEMAN, who will discuss his latest book, Ecological Intelligence.

1 P.M. PANEL DISCUSSION, FEATURING:

LINDA-SUSAN BEARD, associate professor of literature at Bryn Mawr College and a monk in the Emmaus Community in Vestaburg, Michigan

JOHN MAKRANSKY, professor of Buddhism and comparative theology at Boston College; founding teacher for the Foundation for Active Compassion

HAROLD ROTH, professor of religious studies and East Asian studies and the director of the Contemplative Studies Initiative at Brown University

CLIFFORD SARON, associate research scientist U.C. Davis Center for Mind and Brain and M.I.N.D. Institute

MODERATOR: Robert Pryor, founder and director of Antioch Education Abroad's Buddhist Studies Program in Bodh Gaya, India.

For more information, contact Aimee Maruyama at 937-767-2341 or visit antiochcollege.org

SOCHE Funding for this program is provided, in part, by the the Southwestern Ohio Council for Higher Education

ANTIOCH
COLLEGE